General Statement.

Design and Character of the College.

It is the aim of this institution to furnish young men and women with a thorough mental and moral training such as will fit them for the practical duties of life. Instruction will here be conducted on Christian principles, and it will be the aim of the instructors to have it pervaded with a strong and healthful religious influence. Education will be directed with special reference to health, self-control, Christian character, and real usefulness in life as it is.

The corps of instructors is now complete, and ample provision has been made for the instruction of all the College classes. Three classes have already graduated. Two liberal courses of study, a classical and a scientific, have been arranged, each extending over four years. The best advantages will still be afforded to such as can take only a limited course, and also to those who wish to pursue special studies exclusively.

Students may pursue all the studies preparatory for College, or requisite for a practical English Education; also the special studies necessary to qualify them for Teaching, or for Business. They may take at their option any of the Collegiate Studies for which they are prepared when the same are regularly taught in course.

The courses of study are all open to students of both sexes. Ladies reside with the lady teachers in a separate building; but students of both sexes are instructed in the same classes, enjoy the same privileges, and may take the same degrees.

LIBRARY AND APPARATUS.

The College Library now contains about fifteen hundred volumes and is constantly increasing. It is open to all students without charge. There is also considerable apparatus for the illustration of the Sciences. The Chemical Laboratory has been opened and will this year be much enlarged and improved.

EXAMINATIONS AND DEGREES.

At the close of each term, each class is subjected to a thorough written examination upon the studies of that term, and the standing of students depends entirely upon the result of these examinations. The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon those who have completed the prescribed Classical Course of study, and the degree of Bachelor of Science upon those who have completed the Scientific Course. Graduates of three years' standing, who have sustained a good moral character, may receive the degree of Master of Arts. The College confers no honorary degrees.

Preparatory Department.

In this Department students may pursue the usual studies of an elementary English education. The following courses of preparatory study are required for admission to the corresponding courses in the College Department.

Department of Music.

In this Department, provision is made for thorough instruction in Piano-playing, Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition and Chorus Singing. The regular course of study in these branches occupies two years, as follows: First year, Harmony and Part-writing; second year, the same continued, with Counterpoint and the Composition of Sacred and Secular Music. The lessons in Piano-playing and in Chorus Singing are continued through the entire course. Certificates are granted at the end of the course to all those who pass satisfactory examinations. Special attention is paid to the preparation of teachers. Applications for circulars or further information should be addressed to the Professor of Music.

REGULATIONS.

The regulations of the College are few and simple, and designed to cultivate manliness and self-respect by placing the student largely upon his honor and personal responsibility. Students attend public worship in some church regularly twice on the Sabbath. Punctual attendance on all prescribed exercises and cheerful observance of the rules are required. Study hours must be spent in study. Students are expected to be exemplary in Morals and Manners. None but those who earnestly desire improvement are wanted here, and such as continue to be disorderly or idle cannot be allowed to remain. Students will be admitted at any time, but it is very important that they should enter promptly at the beginning of the term and remain until the close of the examinations. Excuses from recitations and other exercises will not be given except for sickness or unusual causes. Unless it is strictly necessary, students will not be allowed to make visits home or elsewhere, if their absence would include the time of any recitation. Even when no recitation is lost, such visits cannot but be highly detrimental to a student's progress and should be discouraged. Parents are requested to make their arrangements accordingly.

No student is permitted to visit the room of a student of the other sex, except by special permission in case of severe sickness.

EXPENSES.

There are no extra charges. French and German are included in the above. Instruction in vocal music is free. Washing is done at very low rates. Students furnish their own fire and lights.

All charges are payable in advance.

About two hundred students may have rooms and board in the College Buildings. Several of the teachers reside there and board at the same table with the students. The middle building is exclusively for ladies. Board may be had in private families at reasonable rates.

MANUAL LABOR.

Young ladies who wish, may assist in the Domestic Department, and thus pay in part for their board. None are required to render any domestic service, and none are allowed to work more than two hours a day, except in special cases. Those who expect such employment must apply for it before coming. Young men who need it, may generally find remunerative employment for an hour or two a day, but the College does not agree to furnish it. Those who are in earnest for an education, and have tact in helping themselves, need not be deterred for want of means. Those who are needy, if they are faithful in working with both head and hands, will here receive all possible encouragement, and may earn a considerable part of their support. But parents should consider that a good education is always worth more than it costs; and that money well expended in it is the wisest investment for their children. Dutiful students should never be required, except by necessity, to earn their own support, or any considerable part of it, while getting their education.

OUTFIT.

The rooms in the College Buildings are furnished with stove, bedstead, washstand, table and plain chairs. Other furniture—bed, bedding, lamp, curtains, etc.—is supplied by the student. A carpet, even if it be but a small one, a table-spread, and everything which contributes to the comfort and pleasantness of a room, should be brought, if possible, from home. The beneficial influence upon the student's manners and character, of surrounding him in his room with all that makes home cheerful and attractive, can hardly be over-estimated. Every student should be provided with table napkins, an umbrella, overshoes, and plenty of warm underclothing.

LOCATION, BUILDINGS, &c.

Ripon is reached by the Chicago & Northwestern and Milwaukee & St. Paul Railways. It is one of the most attractive places in the State. The scenery is pleasant and the climate healthful. The grounds occupied by the Institution are beautifully located, commanding extensive views of the surrounding country. The College has three large stone buildings three stories high.

These now afford ample room for all purposes of instruction; also for Chapel, Library, Literary Societies, Boarding Hall and residence for teachers and students. Much has been done during the past year and much will this year be done to add to the convenience and attractiveness of the College buildings and grounds.

GROWTH AND WANTS.

Since its organization for Collegiate work, the College has made rapid progress. The number of students has greatly increased; the buildings and facilities for instruction have been enlarged. The courses of study have been matured and completely arranged, and all the departments of instruction have been supplied with permanent instructors.

But it is evident that the proper work of the College has only just begun. Its usefulness and growth are now limited only by want of means adequate to its work. Hitherto, with very severe economy, and with great sacrifice from its teachers, it has been operated almost wholly on its receipts for tuition. Nothing contributed to it has been used for current expenses, and it is not proposed to use any gift for that purpose. But the work of the College now requires an adequate endowment, and efforts are being made to raise $100,000, one-half of this sum being expected from the East. The Library should also be enlarged, and there is much need of more apparatus for the illustration of the Natural Sciences. The Cabinets will this year be permanently organized and located. The friends of liberal education are invited to assist in these objects. Their donations, either of money for the endowment and Library, or of materials for the Cabinets, will be used most advantageously.
